NEGROES AS SOLDIERS.

NEGROES AS SOLDIERS.

General Lord Wolseley Pays the Africans a High Compliment.

I do not think Europeans learn drill as quickly as the Hasuto or the Zulu. It is astonishing to see the zeal, the undisquised interest and application these savages bring to bear upon all military lessons given to them, writes Lord Wolseley in the Fortnightly Review. They take the utmost pride in being soldiers and in acquiring any art or drill or exercise connected with the management and handling of arms, or the movement of armed bodies. There seems to be something in the disposition and genius of the common stock from which they come, some hereditary bias in their brain, in their very blood, which fits them for the easy acquisition of a soldier's duties. And yet many of these races who thus quickly acquire an excellence in drill, etc., can not be taught any mechanical handleraft; indeed, many can never even learn to draw a straight line.

The African in our West India regiments has always displayed the child-like affection for and implicit reliance upon the officers who treated him well, which is so marked a feature in the character of the negro slave. His obedience to orders, especially when a sentry, was remarkable. Many amusing stories on this point were current at Government House when I was at Cape Coast Castle. A previous Governor, finding that his native servants were given to robbing him by daily carrying away bundles of things from his kitchen, had orders given to the sentry before his door that no one was to be allowed out carrying any parcel with him. Very shortly afterward the Governor, in a hurry to consult his Chief Justice, put some papers into a dispatch-box to take with him to the judge's house. He reckoned without his host, however, for the sentry, standing in front of him with bayonet at the charge, would not allow him to pass with the offending dispatch-box. The Governor remonstrated, and urged that it was be himself who had given the order, but all to no purpose, for in the quaint and amusing gibberish whic allow any one with a punche the "copral's" order was his law.

"LONG JOHN" ANECDOTES. Some Good Stories That Recall Early Days

New stories occasionally crop out about "Long John" (the late John Wentworth), says the Chicago Tribune. "When he first came to Chicago he served for awhile as a clerk in one of the general stores here, and dealt out calico, molasses, shingle nails, flour and hair-pins with equal impartiality. Among the customers of the store was an Irishman who was a constant irritant to John's bump of animosity on account of a habit he had of always wanting 'some thing thrown in' whenever he paid a billior made a purchase. So sure as he invested a dollar or pand a bill he requested the salesman a purchase. So sure as he invested a dollar or paid a bill he requested the salesman to 'throw in' a load pencil, or a pipe, or a paper of pins, or some other little article.

"One day this Irishman came into the store and, among other articles, purchased a two-galion jug of molasses. As usual he wanted the investment topped off with a gift.

"'And now, Johnny, dear,' he said, for John was waiting on him, 'can't you throw in a small lot of chewing tobaccy!"

"John looked at the customer a moment in disgust, and then, a bright idea seizing him, he pulled the cork from the jug, him, he pulled the cork from the jug-crammed a lot of tobacco into the molasses. and handed it to the astonished Irishman with the remark that there was his "tobaccy thrown in."

and his connection with that store also," said a man to whom this was told.
"And, by the way, it was the store conducted by John S. Hogan, in connection master in 1837, and the mail wasn't heavy enough to worry him to any great extent. Whisky was cheap in those days, of course, and it was a custom with many of the store-keepers to keep a bottle or jug handy, at which their customers could refresh themselves. There was one old fellow who themselves. There was one old fellow who drank more of John Hogan's free whisky than, in Wentworth's view, the purchases he made warranted, and so he put up a job on the old man, who, as in the former story, was an Irishman. Pouring the real whisky from the customers' jug he inserted a liberal dose of raw alcohol, cayenne and ginger, and told the habitues of the store to look for results when the mixture touched the bottom of the drinker's stomach. Presently the Irishman came in and made the the bottom of the drinker's stomach. Presently the Irishman came in and made the usual call upon the whisky jug. He poured out a generous tumblerful and gulped it down, while those in the secret prepared to enjoy the look of surprise and astonishment that would come over his face. The old man said nothing for awhile, but stood gazing at the empty glass. He rubbed his stomach and appeared to think. Then he turned around to the crowd, and with the tears running down his face and his voice filled with emotion, gasped out:

"'Holy—mither—of—Moses—byes—but that was good stuff!"

Something New in Foot-Gear.

"Of all the astonishing inventions," says Invention, "that which is credited to a Japanese gentleman for walking on the waters is one of the most surprising. He is stated to have triumphel after twenty years' labor and sorrow, study and experiment, and has now applied for a patent. It is described as something in the nature of foot-goar, made of iron, paper, gum-elastic and wood, elliptical in shape, having guttapercha tubes and a life-belt attached. It is not announced how locomotion is to be achieved, but it is said that three miles an hour will be the pace. The apparatus weighs two and one-half pounds only, and the wearer will be able to carry a load of twenty-five pounds."

What Becomes of Reporters.

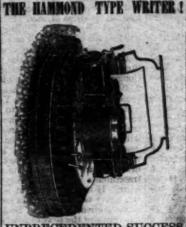

Julian Ralph, a well-known New York newspaper man, in an article in the Epoch on "What Becomes of Reporters!" furnishes these data: About thirty men reporting in New York fifteen years ago are still reporting, and more than half that number died in the harness. In the same time possibly as many as 150 men drifted into the business, made no mark, and drifted out. Of 250 or more reporters the writer had known in New York 30 are still reporting, 50 others are in journalism and 20 of the remainder, who are now in other callings, are conspections before the public. The daily press of New York employs about 350 reporters. Mr. Ralph concludes that journalism seems to have but a small outlet into commercial callings.

THE bill appropriating $100,000 for the storage of water, which passed the last Legislature and is now a law, is attracting 'considerable comment. We call attention to a communication in another column which tells the stery about as it is. The Commission, as it [ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCHES TO THE now stands, is composed of John R. Bradley of Elko, Evan Williams of Ornsby, H. Springmeyer of Douglas and L. A. Blakeslee of Humboldt. Clark of Humboldt dent, Ingalis acted as presiding officer was named in the bill, but for some reason he was not satisfactory to the powers that be, and Blakeslee was sent to Humboldt to effect his (Clark's) resignation, which was telegraphed to the Governor yesterday, and Blakeslee was named in his place. The whole thing, from beginning to end, has an unsavory cast, and it looks very much like a large sized job put up in the interest of the of Dakota; Cornelius H. Hanford of that the people have a rod in pickle for them that will be applied with a vigorous hand.

REFERING to the appointment of William Windom, of Minnesota, as Secretary of the Treasury, and the retirement of Dwight M. Sabin as one of the United States Senators

Statesman says:

'Mr. Windom has had large and honorable experience in public affairs, and is a man of cool and sound judgment, and on joya a character for integrity as broadly established as it is spotless. Six years ago, in an hour of fatal weekness, the people of Minnesota exchaged him for a fellow who now leaves the Senate after six years of such feeble service that we may sately wagen a biscuit that an hundred men in the entire Union, outside of Minnesota, do not even know his name. He took nothing into the Senate save a magnificent mustache that he tenderly cultivated for six years, and with it he now retires. The gentleman has recently been filling the papers with expressions of his "surprise" that President Harrrson should invite ex-Senator Windom into his abinet! It is encouraging to know that the fellow has mental fonce ecough to be surprised; but he may soothe his surprise with the assurance that both the Recublican party and the country are well satisfied with the re-uppointment of sound, honest, faithful William Willi

Mr. Sabin was also doubtles surprised when he discovered that Minnesota Republicans were willing to give him a rest for an indefinate period.

Senator Stewart's Vigalance.

The New York Herald (antisilver) of the 6th, insant contains the following:

the following:

"The Senate had not confirmed President Harrison's Secretary of the Treasury when Senator Stewart of Nevada, rose to day to remind his party associates of the pledges of the Chicago plutfoum on the sliver questint. He moved a resolution declaring the optoion of the Senate that the business interests of the country require the colonge of $4.000,000 per month, the maximum authorized by the act of February 28, 1878, instead of the $2,000,000 to which most Secretaries of the the Treasury have limited themselves.

"The resolution was objected to by Senators Harris of Tennessee, Morgan of Alabuma, and Frye of Maine, and consideration was deferred until to-morrow.
"Senator Stewart says that unless the matter is compileited by political considerations his resolution will get the votes of two-thirds of the Senators. He is free to say that he does not know whether President Harrison and Secretary Windom would be guided by such a declaration as he proposes to-day to the Senate, but he believes the Fresident will sign any positive legislation that passes Congress.

A Worthless Husband

CHICAGO, March 12.—A special from Norwalk, Conn., says: "Mrs. T. B. She applied to the Superior Court for a divorce. Meantime, her husband made use of her signature upon checks for large amounts, and, with the funds thus obtained, extended his outside performances, going to Canada to be in fashion. Having squandered all, he returned, like a prodigal son, to beg his abused wife's pardon. The visit was a flying one, but long enough for him to learn that Mrs. Gunning would agree to no reconciliation. Then Gunagree to no reconciliation. Then Gunning went to South America where he now is. It is now said that he got away with over half a million of his wife's money before she began to realize the enormity of his operations. Then she put her foot squarely down. In Court last Friday she easily made it apparent that her case was just, and an absolute divorce was granted."

A Busy Day.

Washington, March 12.-This has been a busy day for the President. Among the delegations received was one from Arizona, with T. A. Wilson as spokesman. He talked about the Governorship of that Territory.

Stanford, accompanied by Representatives Felton, Morrow and Vandever, also called and urged the President to appoint as public Printer, H. F. Osborne of the L'28 Angeles, Cal. Express. and paid out £261,276. The bank refused to allow witness to examine its lodgement slips. The League paid to the Ladies League £12,305, and to the relief fund £2,025, and disbursed £10,000 in the defence of prisoners.

The witness further testified that he examined the League books. The total receipts in 1883 amounted to 11,000 pounds, of which America sent 1,000 and Australia and New Zealand, 8,000. In 1884 the receipts were 11,000 pounds, in 1885, 18,000 and in 1886, 17,000. The National League's total receipts were over 100,00 pounds. Counsel for the Times applied for an order for an examination of Parnell's private accounts with the National Bank. Parnell gave his consent to the examination. Coffey, a reporter from Cork, testified that he made a statement to a policeman, who promised him that he should be paid beyond his greatest expectations. Witness declared this statement absolutely false. The evidence created a sensation.

Coffee further testified that he purposely made the statement which he gave to the policeman sensational, best to the policeman sensational, best to allow with the new cruiser of the sease to foreigners. A great ironclad of 7,000 tons and a small gunbat of 800 tons burthen complete the list. The designs for these new gunboat of 800 tons burthen complete the list. The designs for these new vessels have already been prepared by the Naval Board and await approval by the Secretary.

In addition to the vessels above de scribed, Congress at its last session provided for the construction of four more cruisers, including Thomas cruising monitor, and in case of emer-gency their construction could be com-menced with the present fiscal year.

Oregon is one of the most productive States in the Union. Its vast mineral regions conain gold, silver, copper, iron and coal. Its minerae tracts of grazing lands support housands of cattle and sheep, and its extensive agricultural regions produce all the cereals in abundance, the yield per acre being, in some instances, the largest in the world. Among the useful and valuable products of the Webfoot State may be mentioned Oregon Kidney Tea, which has proved a boom to housands afficted with pain in the back and tidney difficulties. It is purely of vegetable composition and never fails. Sold by William Pinniger.

THE WATER BILL.

Its History Ventilated by One

law. It provides for four Commi ers, whose powers are defined by the Act. The Commissioners are: John R. Bradley, L. A. Blakeslee, Evan Williams and Mr. Springmeyer. Three of these gentlemen were men bers of the last Legislature that crowded the measure through under peculiar and que dionable circum stances. The only Commissioner outside of the Legislative body is John R. Bradley. Each of the other three were ardent advocates of the measure. nd, were they possessing the modesty that becomes law-makers, would forthwith tender their respective resignations, and thus take away the imputations that will be cast upon them should they hold to the plum, partly of their own making, and thus serve interests to which they are wedded, and which adds but little to the revenne which runs the machinery of the State. The most culpable feature of the bill, as is claimed, is that it is the intent to spend the vast appropriation made on the Carson river for the direct benefit of the mills along its banks, and indirectly the Virginia & Truckee The rancher, if he uses an inch, or a hundred inches of water, is subject to any tax that the Commissioners may enforce upon him, but, as the bill now stands, the mills can turn out their millions in gold and silver, reap a rich harvest, ship their bullion to California harvest, ship their bullion to California or elsewhere, and, by means that are childlike and bland, not pay one dol-lar into the State Treasury, and thus leave the honest toiler of the soil to pay for the water he uses, also to pay lor the construction of the water power, which our last Legislature has given to mill men free.

This law which may be abused and

This law which may be abused and used nefariously, passed the Assembly by twenty-one votes, Hon. H. H. Beck being at the time confined to his bed by sickness.

When it reached the Senate it had a formidable opposition, which, in the shape it was, would have been defeated, but the friends of the measure who had sen who had axes to grind, came to its rescue; by pledging their support if the bill would be left intact, to remedy its defects by a supplimentary act which was drawn up, and which provided five county, in whch it was provided hat county, in which it was provided hat the price of water to any one using it, was to be fixed by the Commissioners. This measure passed the Senate and all the Senators were pledged to use their influence to secure its passage. But having accomplished their purpose it was quite evident that these gentlemen who were loudest ostensibly in befriending the bill covertly did the work that almost as soon as it reached work that almost as soon as it reached the Assembly caused it to be laid upon the table and there it rested till both bodies adjourned sine die.

These Commissioners hold no enviable position. Their actions will be watched with the closest scrutiny. If they have a semblance of serving other than just and intended ends, the seal than just and intended ends, the seal of condemnation will be stamped upon them. The hundred thousand d-llars they are authorized to use comes out of the pocket of the toilers with lands and herds—not much of it from the bullion which is produced.

Cleveland Still Intriguing for Po A New York dispatch of the 10th

Superintendent Whited was up from who believes that Grover Cleveland intends to remain in political obscurity possesses what Mark Twain would characterize as "a nature childlike and gullible." Nothing is more re-mote from the ex-President's mind. He tasted the sweets of success so un-Captain Overton of the Virginia interruptedly until he encountered last November's Waterloo that he cannot realize yet that the role of a public man in which he has figured is played in the political field is as yet unfulfilled, he is joined and supported by the forlorn Mugwumps and political panderers. These latter elements, apparently, have had great weight with the ex-President in shaping his future course, and his residence in this vi-cinity is due, almost entirely to the influence exerted by his New York admirers.

Toward the closing days of the administration consultations were frequent, and one of the results was hurried secret visits of Dan Lamont to New York with a specified mission. These conferences were held at the invitation of Cleveland, and the participants in them usually were distinguished representatives of the County Democracy and a leading Mugwump. At the final conference, a few days before President Harrison's inauguration, the future residence of Cleveland was discussed. Cleveland wished to reside in the heart of the city, because The Winnemucca Silver State says:

If Cleveland are to select sites for reservoirs and dams for water storage, and that a part of the appropriation might, at the option of the Commissioners, be expended on the Truckee or Humboldt rivers. If such is the fact, the Commissioners must be partial to Carson should the whole amount of the appropriation be expended in storing water for the mills in that locality.

It is understood that a place at Port Chester, in Westchester county, has been decided on. The value of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, in the protection it affords from the dangers of pulmonary disorders, cannot be overestimated. Mr. C. K. Philips, Pittsburg, Pa., writes: "About three years ago I had severe Laryngitis, which resulted in chronic hoarseness. By the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral I have since entirely regained my heafth." Mr. Henry Russell, Excelsior Printing Co., New York, writes: "Influenza became epidemic in my neighborhood. Several members of my family suffered severely with it, all Gi whom took Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and were cured by it in a few days. It is a wonderful medicine for Influenza. Too much cannot be said in its favor."

E. M. Sargent, 41 Andover st., Loweh, Mass., says: "I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral about the year 1842, as a family medicine, for Coughs and Colds, and have always kept it in my house since that time. I consider it the best remedy that can be had for these complaints.' Dr. J. B. Robertson, Clayton, N. C. writes: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, in my family and practice, for a number of years, and have no hesitation in recommending it. It is an admirable preparation, and well-qualified to do all that is claimed for it." E. J. Styers, Germanton, N. C. writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is the best Cough preparation I ever saw. It gives instant relief."

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

has cured a Cough in a few doses. It always relieves irritation of the lungs of throat, and arrests the tendency to inflammation. It strikes at the foundation of all Pulmonary diseases, is without a rival as an expectorant, and is a sure cure for the most offstinate Coughs and Colds. L. Garrett, Texana, Texas, writes: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for twenty years. For throat and lung diseases, I consider it a wonderful remedy."

WAITIN' FER THE CAT TO DIE

Lawryt don't I rick offset
That 'ere old swing in the lane!
Eight and proper, I expect,
Old times con't come back again;
But I want to state, of they
Could come back, and I could say |
What my pick ud be, 'y jing!
I'd say: Gimme the old swing
'Nunder the old locus' trees
On the old place, et you please. On the old place, ef you please, Danglin' there with half shet eye, Waltin' fer the cat to die!

I'd say: Gimme the old gang
Of barefooted, hungry, lean,
Orn'ry boys you want to hang
When you're growed up twicet as n
The old gyarden patch, the old
Truanta, and the stuff we stoled!
The old stompin'-groun', where we
Wore the grass off, wild and free
As the woon of the old swing. As the swoop of the old swing, Where we uset to climb and cling, and twist roun', and fight and lie-Waitin' fer the cat to die.

'Pears like I'most allus could Swing the highest of the crowd—
Jes sail up there tel I stood
Downside up, and screech out loud,
Ketch my bresth, and jes drap back
Fer to let the old swing slack,
Yit my tow-head dippin' still
In the green bougha, and the chill
Up my blackbone taperin' down,
With my shadder on the groun'
Blow and slower trailin' by—
Wattin fer the oat to die! Waitin fer the cat to die!

Now my daughter's little Jane's
Got a kind o' baby swing
On the porch, so's when it rains
So she k'n play there—little thing!
And I'd limped out 'other day
With my old cheer this-a-way,
Swingin' are and rockin' too,
Thinkin' how I uset to do
At Aer age, when suddently.
"Hey, gran'pap!" she says to me,
"Why you rock so allow!" Says I:
"Waitin' for the cat to die!"

WILD ASTERS.

How They Took the Place of Orange Blossoms.

It was a very charming little shopping-bag, and Sadie had wanted such an one for a long time. When she discovered it on her dressing-table her birthday morning it pleased her more than all her other pres-ents combined, though some were more valuable.

Later in the day she said to her mother: "Now, mother, you know—and if you don't, I do—that the very first time I carry this bag I'll leave it somewhere as sure as fate."

"Yes; but bane, yearnore carefal."
"Very true, mother, but then I'm not; and I never shall be, I very much fear."
"Perhaps if you lose this it will be a lesson "" amounter." "Yes; but Sadie, you're old enough to be you will remember."

"But I don't intend to lose it, even if 1 do leave it; for I mean to have my full address engraved on this silver plate, instead of imply initials."

She had it engraved that afternoon, and displaying it in triumph, said:

'There, mother! see that!' Now he who runs may read: 'Sadie M. Farnham, Pleasantville, Me.'" antville, Me.'"
"Yes, perhaps somebody will read it whom you won't wish to," responded the mother,

"O, I shall kee, that side toward me when I carry it."

The last of September she went to visit her most intimate friend, Laura McQuisten, lately married, and living in Ohio. Laura's former home had been in Sadie's own viliage; and knowing Laura's fondness for the wild reveale age; which because all their wild purple aster which bordered all their road-sides, nestling beside the golden-rod, she gathered a large bunch of them to carry to her friend, with but one gorgeous spray of golden-rod in their midst.

Her brother Harry found a pleasant seat for her in the car and, handing her the bag and flowers, he said:

"There! these are almost equal to a big box, hittle box, band-box and bundle."
"Now, Harry! you know father says that I'm a finished traveler. I never burden myself or any one else with luggage."
"You'll get sick enough of those flowers
before you get there; they'll be withered, anyway."

"No, they won't; for I shall put fresh water on the cotton every little while."
"Here are your tickets. Take care of refer and don't get into any scrapes. Good bye, ittle sis; remember me to Laura."

The car was empty, save for a few passengers behind Sadie, whose faces she could not see. She loved dearly to study faces, herself unobserved, and began to wish the car would fill up. It did with a rush at the next station, every seat soon being full. Just as she was wondering who would occupy the seat with her, a rather elderly lady, with a slightly troubled expression, entered the car, and looked anxiously up and down the rows of seats. She approached Sadie somewhat timidly, but Sadie lifted the flowers from the seat beside her, and said brightly: "You can sit here if you like, madam." The lady—that she was a lady was written all over her, though evin't get into any like, madam." The lady—that she was a lady was written all over her, though evidently unused to traveling alone—thanked her with a very relieved face, and sat down beside her. The lady's eyes fell at once on the flowers and lingered there. Sadie, who was watching her new traveling companion, saw from the half-sad, half-tender smile which curved her lips, and the abstracted dreamy look on her face, that she was far away from her hereach.

"Now, I should like to know, although, as you know, I've no curiosity, what you've been up, to! Wasn't my last charge to you a solemn warning not to get into scrapes?"

Laura said it was most romantic, quite like a story; and when Sadle left for home declared she knew her departure was hastened by a desire to see that panel.

Sadle had no adventure during the homeward journey, having a seat to herself most of the way. The remainder of it was occupied by an old gentleman, who took shuff and had catarrh, saying "Um! um!" in the most emphatic manner after each application of his handkerchief.
